Petition-Circulating Interferes With a Daily Column

If this column has been occupied by reprinting the last week you should know the reason: Pod Rogers, circulation manager, and your editor have been busy running a signature campaign for a petition to preserve equal voting rights between town and country in annexation elections.

The old law in Arkansas was that when a city proposed to annex an adjacent rural area the election was conducted with a single tabulation—meaning that the small rural area was automatically outvoted by the populous town.

This had always seemed wrong to thoughtful people. Annexation should be a contract agreeable to both city and country. Therefore the tabulations should be kept separate—one for the city, another for the country—and the annexation should have to win on both tabulations to be successful.

So in the 1969 General Assembly Act 65 was passed to require just this—two separate tabulations. Big Little Rock fought No. 65 vigorously, but the reform went through.

In the 1971 General Assembly the L. R. vested interests came right back and enacted No. 298, which would have repealed No. 65 and thrown annexation elections into a single tabulation, as in the old days.

The petition now circulating would refer the Little Rock-sponsored Act 298 to the 1972 general election, and would keep in force at least until that time Act 65, requiring separate tabulations of city and country votes on annexation.

Circulation of the petition is winding up this week in Hempstead county, and will begin this week-end in Nevada county from a headquarters to be named in Prescott. The campaign ends with Little Rock filing Friday, July 16.

We still need canvassers in Hempstead. Canvassers (or circulators) are paid at the legal rate of 10¢ per signature. You may get petitions and instructions at Hope Star office, and when your petition is completed with signatures you may turn it into us for your signature and notarization—and money.

Cutbacks in Welfare in 22 States

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a clear signal of financial distress, 22 states are implementing or considering welfare cutbacks, according to a federal survey.

Findings of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare study indicate a dramatic reversal of the steady, 30-year climb in public assistance levels for the poor.

"This means one thing," commented an HEW welfare specialist. "States are running out of money and are looking for ways to cut back."

Welfare is a major budget item for most states. State and local governments are spending more than $7 billion a year on the 14 million persons receiving social and medical assistance.

According to the HEW survey, benefit reductions of up to 20 per cent have taken or are scheduled to take effect this year in 10 states. Reductions were listed as possible in an additional 12 states.

Among the 22 states were New York and Minnesota, considered by federal officials as traditional leaders in expanding welfare benefits.

The survey found cutbacks in a number of forms: Alabama has dropped 6,000 families from welfare rolls. Maine eliminated its unemployed-parent program. Rhode Island is dropping two benefit items. Kansas plans to slash payment levels 20 per cent Sept. 1.

The other states listed for definite reduction were Georgia, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Nebraska and South Dakota.

By contrast, the report listed benefit increases this year in only four states and the District of Columbia. They are Hawaii, Mississippi, Nevada and Oklahoma. Increases were considered possible in Maryland, Ohio and Wisconsin.

The 12 states listed as considering assistance reduction are Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

A Perfect World Will Never Be But a Better World Is Possible

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Every-one yearns for a perfect world, but this is a hopeless hope.

There is no perfect world this side of the pearly gates, and there never will be.

Then how about a better world? Ah, there is an achievable dream. There are millions of ways the world can be made better, and each man has his own formula for it.

Here are a few suggested steps that might help to turn humankind and the planet earth to hum in harmony instead of screech in long discord:

Each husband could have two wives if he willed it—one to act as his housekeeper and second mother, the other to act as his girl friend.

Each wife could have two husbands if she willed it—one to pay her bills, the other to give her thrills.

All teen-agers would be taken from parents at 13, kept and educated in vast government pens, and returned home at 21 with a college diploma and a job.

Cocktail parties would be banned except between the hours of 5 and 7:30 p.m. on Saturday nights.

Possibility of Nuclear Role for Japan Has Touched a Raw Nerve

By KENNETH J. Freed
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility of a nuclear role for Japan has touched a raw nerve in the Nixon administration with indications of a Cabinet-level split over the issue.

The State Department Thursday volunteered a statement to newsmen, saying reports of a potential Japanese deployment of nuclear weapons came from "cloudy and uncertain" sources.

Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said it was his understanding that Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird was not the source of the reports.

Nonetheless, it was learned the State Department asked for the transcript of a background news briefing given newsmen by American officials in Tokyo

Vietnamese Get Another U.S. Base

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The United States turned over its last base along the demilitarized zone to the South Vietnamese today but kept some American artillerymen and advisers there.

About 500 men from the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, left Fire Base Charlie 2 four miles southeast of the DMZ. This was the base where a North Vietnamese rocket ripped through a bunker crowded with GIs on May 21, killed 29 and wounded 33. It was the heaviest toll inflicted by one rocket in the war.

About 50 Americans will remain there to man an 8-inch battery, to advise the South Vietnamese and to monitor radar and sensor devices that track North Vietnamese infiltration.

On Thursday, the South Vietnamese took over Fire Base Alpha 4, also known as Con Thien, three miles northwest of Charlie 2. About 200 U.S. troops left Alpha 4, but about 100 are remaining for artillery, advisory and electronic duty.

"We have been taking over firebases on the DMZ since 1969 and this is the last one," said Maj. Gen. Pham Van Phu, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division.

Phu's deputy, Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai, commented: "We are going to deploy our troops as best we can. Whether or not we can do the job, we shall see."

Delight Bank Robbed But Loot Dropped

DELIGHT, Ark. (AP) — A young man with "long, shaggy hair and a couple of teeth missing" held up the Bank of Delight about 10 a.m. today, but either dropped or threw down his loot in running from the bank and was captured about 35 minutes later in an apartment 1½ blocks from the bank.

The man took an estimated $5,000 from the bank but all that was recovered from the sack the man lost while sprinting from the bank.

The Pike County sheriff's office at Murfreesboro said they were holding the man, pending filing of charges.

Perry Huffman, an employee of the bank, said the man approached him and asked if he knew a certain person. Huffman said he turned to ask another employee and when he looked back the man was holding a pistol on him.

Huffman said the man told him to put money in a paper sack and then he left.

Huffman said Guy Wingfield, cashier and executive vice president of the bank, followed the man and saw him go into the apartment.

Huffman said he called the sheriff and police quickly converged on the apartment. Huffman said the man came out peacefully, but said it looked as though the man had changed clothes and combed his hair.

Guards Shot in $142,000 Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Brinks guards and an elevator starter were shot and wounded today by bandits who made off with $142,000 in a payday robbery today at the city's Municipal Building, police said.

The fleeing holdup men raced to a getaway car and escaped across the Brooklyn Bridge.

The Brink's men were delivering money to the Municipal Credit Union office on the third floor of the building.

The two guards stepped into an automatic elevator on the first floor and were joined by the elevator starter, while others were asked to step out, usual procedure in delivering money, police said.

At the second floor, the elevator stopped, opened and two waiting gunmen opened fire, wounding the three occupants, police said.

The gunmen grabbed the cash bundle, police said and ran down a marble stairway and into the streets of the city government complex in lower Manhattan.

The wounded men were reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

Greeks Get $117 Million for Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — The once-shunned Greek military government would get $117 million in U.S. arms aid this fiscal year under Nixon administration proposals whose secrecy label has been lifted for the first time.

The State Department, which traditionally has kept individual aid amounts secret, released the new figures today after Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., threatened to publicize them on his own unless the administration could show why they should be withheld.

The country-by-country breakdown shows how the United States plans to spend $2.3 billion in military assistance, military credit sales and excess military material in the fiscal year that began July 1.

Greece, whose aid was shut off after a military coup in April 1967, would get $19.8 million in direct military aid, $60 million in arms sales and $38 million in excess U.S. military supplies and equipment.

President Nixon resumed the military aid program to Greece last September, citing Greek membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its strategic position on Europe's southern flank.

Proxmire said figures were supplied for 43 nations.

"Although the State Department made no argument that the military security of the United States was at stake," Proxmire said, the amounts for six Middle East countries and the Philippines will not be released until later because of delicate negotiations now under way.

The figures made available show total foreign military assistance of $731.5 million, military credit sales of $582 million and economic supporting assistance of $825 million, a previously unclassified figure.

Also made public was a $220-million estimate for excess military articles supplied other countries.

The figures do not include amounts for military assistance funded by the individual armed services, ship loans or military aid provided indirectly through sales of U.S. farm commodities overseas.

Folk Singer Disturbs the Peace

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Robert A. Vargo, 47, of Yellville was charged here Thursday with disturbing the peace in connection with his dispute with City Hall over a contract for use of the City Auditorium.

Vargo, who pleaded innocent to the charge, was being held in jail in lieu of $300 bond.

Vargo was arrested while he and his three children were protesting what he called unfair treatment given them over the contract. Vargo and his children comprise a folk-singing group that has been renting the auditorium for five weeks at $200 per week on a verbal contract with the city council.

Mayor Fred Nass says the council has twice notified Vargo that the contract must be written. Vargo has refused to sign a contract, however, because he says a contract drawn up by the council is unfair.

Vargo said he would not agree to the contract because it limits the times at which he could use the auditorium.

Nass also added that Vargo was behind in his payments to the city.

Farmers Plant More Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Thursday farmers planted 12,398,600 acres to cotton this year, 4 per cent more than in 1970 and the most since 1965.

There was no estimate of cotton production. That will be made by the department Aug. 9.

Officials Study New Shift in Communists' Late Peace Offensive

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the Nixon administration is pondering the significance of a surprise new shift in the latest peace offensive launched by Vietnamese Communist leaders.

The shift is in the form of a demand for the ouster of only President Nguyen Van Thieu from any future South Vietnamese government ready to negotiate an end of the war.

Previously North Vietnamese and Viet Cong leaders had insisted that not only Thieu, but Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem, as well, would be unacceptable in a post-war government.

"For years Communist delegates at the Paris peace talks have been calling for removal of the 'Thieu-Ky-Khiem clique,'" one diplomatic informant said. "They practically pronounced 'Thieu-Ky-Khiem' as one word. Now they've been..."

Wholesale Price Rise Levels Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in wholesale prices leveled off last month, supplying moderately good news for the Nixon administration in its battle against inflation.

The Labor Department reported today that the wholesale price index advanced by four-tenths of one per cent in June, the same increase as in May.

On a seasonally adjusted basis the increase was the same.

The Wholesale Price Index tends to foreshadow future movements in consumer prices and provided evidence to back up the Nixon administration's claim the rate of inflation is slackening.

Adjusted for seasonal influences, the four-tenths of one per cent rise was up only slightly from May's three-tenths of one per cent, also adjusted seasonally.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the Industrial Commodities Index, one of the most sensitive measures of inflation in the economy, showed a two-tenths of one per cent advance.

Most of the increase occurred in farm products and processed foods and feeds, usually volatile components in wholesale prices.

The department said farm products rose by 1.8 per cent and processed foods and feeds by three-tenths of one per cent. These two commodity groups accounted for more than 60 per cent of the total increase in wholesale prices, the department said.

Earthquake in Chile Fatal to 63

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A severe earthquake rolled across central Chile during the night and the government announced today the toll stood at 63 dead and 461 injured.

Chile's main port of Valparaiso on the Pacific coast appeared to be among the cities hardest hit. Rescue officials there reported 25 dead and about 300 injured.

Information on damage and the number of victims still was sketchy, with many communities isolated by landslides.

The Thursday night quake also was felt through much of Argentina across the Andes, but no casualties or major damage were reported there.

Communications were still shaky or disrupted with the areas north of Santiago that were hit hardest, and there was no word on property damage. It was feared that the casualty toll would rise as more reports came in.

Seismographs in Santiago and abroad measured the quake at a force of around 7 on the Richter scale, but government officials said it registered 10 in the areas hardest hit. This is an unusually high reading—the Alaska quake of 1964 registered 8.25—and there was speculation that the report might be an exaggeration.

Chile's four central provinces, where four million people live, were declared an emergency zone, and police and armed forces moved in to provide food and medical relief.

President Salvador Allende went on the air and pleaded for calm. He planned a helicopter tour of the disaster area today.

Seismographs abroad located the tremor's epicenter near Valparaiso, Chile's second largest city, on the coast 60 miles northwest of the capital. But the interior minister said the quake was strongest in the towns of Illapel, Barbala and Salamanca, 125 miles north of Santiago.

The earthquake struck at 11:03 p.m. as most of Santiago's 3 million people were eating their usual late-night dinners. Frightened crowds poured into the streets, and the power company cut off the electricity to prevent fires. The lights were out for nearly an hour, and telephone service and international communications were cut for an hour and a half.

Walls cracked and windows broke downtown buildings. Several water mains broke, sending water spurting into the cold air of the winter night. Cornices crashed down from buildings. Panicky motorists injured several persons in the dark.

President Allende went on the air immediately to reassure the public; the populace listened on transistor radios. "Stay in your homes," the president said. "Take care of your families." But crowds huddled in the streets.

No Relief From Heat, Humidity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No relief is in sight for the heat and humidity that hold a firm grip on Arkansas.

A cold front had been expected to bring much drier air to the state, but the front became stationary across Kansas and Missouri and will not reach Arkansas.

The forecast still calls for isolated afternoon and evening thundershower activity, mainly in the southern portion, and high temperatures should be in the 90s through the weekend.

Thursday afternoon highs were a little cooler than on Wednesday due mainly to a heavier cloud cover. Top readings were recorded at Jonesboro and Fort Smith at 95 degrees each, while El Dorado reached only 87 with the aid of an afternoon shower.

Redistricting to Force Out 16 in House

By GREGG HERRINGTON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Redrawn congressional districts will force at least 16 congressmen to quit the House or campaign against other incumbents next year, an Associated Press survey shows.

Choosing the second course, they either could seek election against House colleagues in newly redrawn districts where they reside or run for Congress from neighboring districts, a possibility in some states.

The number of House members faced with redistricting to conform with 1970 census figures.

Reflecting population shifts since 1960, districts are redrawn so each member of the House has roughly the same number of constituents. The process sometimes reduces a state's total of House seats or leaves two congressmen residing in the same district.

"I forecast the greatest number of House retirees in history," Ken Harding, staff director of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, told an interviewer. "Some will quit to seek higher office, but many will decide to take the pension and get out rather than face an incumbent and have to learn new territory. A lot have told me they won't run again."

During the past decade, an average of 31 representatives voluntarily have given up their seats in the 435-member House after each two-year congressional session.

Population relative to the rest of the nation has dropped in nine states to the point the total number of House seats for these states will be cut by 11. New York and Pennsylvania will lose two seats each; Alabama, Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wisconsin will give up one each.

In addition, Maryland, Virginia and Texas, while not losing seats, have reflected intrastate population shifts by squeezing 10 incumbents into five districts.

Other states will finish redrawing district boundaries next year, at which time other pairs of House colleagues may find themselves in the same districts.

Paragould, Ark. (AP) — Chancellor Terry Shell of Cornett ordered the Paragould Water and Sewer Board Thursday to operate the Paragould water system until Aug. 30.

The action is the latest in a controversy which dates back many months over who controls and sets rates for the system.

The Water and Sewer Board has contended that it had controlling authority, but the City Council on June 21 created a new Water Commission as controlling agency.

The commission, backed by the council, subsequently filed a suit, still pending, to wrest control of the system from the board.

KENNETH WHITE AND BETTY STUART

Red River Vocational Technical School's Rho Epsilon Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda won the First Place Award for Outstanding Community Service at the recent Phi Beta Lambda Convention in Miami Beach, Florida. The $500.00 cash award was presented to the chapter for their work in equipping the First Assembly of God Day Care Center to meet the requirements of Act 434.

The late Betty Stuart, then President of the Rho Epsilon Chapter, is shown accepting the cash award and an award certificate from Kenneth White, Executive of Institute of Life Insurance, New York City. Miss Stuart also accepted on behalf of Rho Epsilon Chapter a Second Place Award for the Most Original Project and a Gold Seal Merit Award for Outstanding Activities. Mr. White praised the Hope Chapter for its outstanding leadership and accomplishments.

Miss Stuart had completed her training at Red River Vocational Technical School and was employed at Henderson State College two days prior to a fatal automobile accident last Sunday.

Civilians Avoid Clash With Generals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again the Pentagon's civilian leaders have avoided a possible clash with top generals and admirals, this time by tinkering with the command structure rather than ordering a major shakeup.

The new move, falling far short of recommendations by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's own study panel, comes after he and his top aides:

—Backed away from an indicated intention to strip the Joint Chiefs of Staff of military operational functions and create a separate operations staff under a single high-ranking officer. The study panel had found the present arrangement "awkward and unresponsive."

—Reversed a decision requiring the Defense Intelligence Agency to report directly to him rather than through the Joint Chiefs, thus tightening his control over foreign intelligence.

Nearly a year ago the Blue Ribbon Defense Panel, headed by New York insurance executive Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, ordered a thorough overhaul of the defense leadership and management structure, both civilian and military.

The goal, the panel reported last July 28, was to strengthen civilian control, promote efficiency and end serious cost overruns in buying weapons.

No sweeping changes have resulted, although the Pentagon claims to have implemented or followed objectives of 83 of 113 panel recommendations.

The principal steps have involved embedding the "Fly-by-the-book" principle in defense procurement; improving military promotion and pay policies; stiffening curbs on conflict of interest and assuring compliance with racial non-discrimination directives.

The latest move came Thursday and was billed by the Pentagon as "a reorganization of the unified command structure of United States military forces worldwide."

Actually, it boiled down mainly to abolishing the Strike Command, which never achieved major significance in its 10-year lifetime, and remaking it as a smaller Readiness Command headquarters at the same place, MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., effective Jan. 1.

The announcement said the Readiness Command's "general responsibilities will be to provide a reserve of combat-ready forces to reinforce other unified (multiservice) commands and assist the JCS in joint training requirements and doctrine."

This was pretty much the charter of the Strike Command. But civilian defense chiefs ignored a key Blue Ribbon proposal to create three super commands designed to bring about closer coordination in planning and use of forces from different services.

gun speaking only of Thieu."

The shift in the Communist position emerged after Madame Nguyen Thi Binh presented the Viet Cong's latest peace package at the Paris conference July 1. The proposal was for release of all prisoners held by the Communists in the North and South by the year's end, concurrent with withdrawal of all U.S. troops. Her precise words:

"The U.S. government must really respect the South Vietnamese people's rights to self-determination, put an end to its interference in the internal affairs of South Vietnam, cease backing the bellicose group headed by Nguyen Van Thieu at present in office in Saigon, and stop all maneuvers, including tricks on elections, aimed at maintaining the puppet Nguyen Van Thieu."

Five days later Le Duc Tho, senior North Vietnamese representative in Paris, endorsed Madame Binh's proposal and in an interview with the New York Times hammered away at Thieu—and Thieu only. He said in part:

"Although it is not admitted... the whole world knows that Thieu has been put in power by the U.S. administration. And the United States will have the decisive voice in the forthcoming elections."

Objects to Ceiling on Laos Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has told the Senate a proposed $200-million ceiling on U.S. spending in Laos is unworkable because officials don't know exactly how much American money is being spent there.

A Defense Department memorandum said because of the combat situation, the Pentagon has been unable to maintain nation-by-nation records of U.S. spending in Southeast Asia.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., sponsor of the amendment that would impose the ceiling, said, "This admission strikes me as a strong argument for its adoption."

Symington said if the administration doesn't know how much is being spent in each country, he doesn't see how it can be certain it is abiding by a $2.5-billion congressional limit on expenditures for military assistance in all of Southeast Asia.

The Missouri senator was said to have reported at a secret Senate session June 7 that U.S. involvement in Laos is costing more than $374 million a year including aid to the government and to Lao, Thai and irregular forces fighting Communists in the northern part of the country.

Symington expressed concern at U.S. B52 bombing raids over northern Laos. His amendment would exempt from the proposed ceiling the cost of U.S. air raids over the Ho Chi Minh Trail area of southern Laos, on the border with South Vietnam.

The Pentagon declared its strong opposition to the spending limit in a memorandum to the Senate Armed Services Committee, defended the policy of military support for Laos, and said, "As drafted, the amendment cannot be administered by the executive branch."

The Pentagon said that for five years, with concurrence of congressional committees, its records of military assistance funded by the armed services in Southeast Asia have been kept only on an estimated basis because of demands of combat.

The Pentagon said the amendment "would substantially impair our on-going operations in Laos, operations which have been undertaken at the request of the government of Laos to assist it in resisting military takeover by North Vietnam."

Symington, meanwhile, has asked Secretary of State William P. Rogers for a detailed accounting of the discussions and agreements that led to U.S. military assistance to Thai troops fighting in Laos.

said Laird had declined a State Department briefing on effects of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty on Japan, which signed the pact last year amid strong controversy.

Bray opened his daily meeting with newsmen with a statement that included:

"We know of no responsible body of opinion in Japan or the United States that advocates the nuclear arms for Japan or even foresees their necessity or possibility."

The Tokyo reports said the American officials had predicted Japan might deploy nuclear weapons by the 1980s because of Chinese missile progress and the possibility the U.S. nuclear position might be restrained by an arms-limitation agreement with the Soviet Union.

Another indication of the State Department's deep concern over the reports was an unusual delay in the opening of Bray's daily session with newsmen. Officials later said this was the result of a lengthy telephone conversation with Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the California White House. Rogers, who is with President Nixon, cleared the strongly worded statement read by Bray, the official said.

Although he has never spoken directly to the issue of Japan and nuclear weapons, Laird is known to feel Tokyo must assume a stronger military position in Asia as the United States reduces its role in that part of the world.

The matter of Laird's reported rejection of a briefing on the nonproliferation treaty assumes importance in view of Bray's pointed reminder Thursday that Japan has signed the pact.

Official in Saigon Denies Drug Link

By CARL D. ROBINSON

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu denied today that he is a "chief trafficker" in the narcotics trade and challenged his accuser, U.S. Rep. Robert H. Steele, to document his charges.

"I deny it completely," Dzu said in an interview at his home in Saigon. He said he came to Saigon from his regional command in Pleiku to discuss the charge with President Nguyen Van Thieu, a political ally.

Steele, R-Conn., told a House foreign affairs subcommittee in Washington Wednesday that Dzu is "one of the chief traffickers in heroin in Southeast Asia." He said the general's involvement was referred to in intelligence reports to the U.S. Ambassador to Saigon, Elsworth Bunker. Steele and Rep. Morgan Murphy, D-Ill., recently toured Southeast Asia to investigate the drug situation.

Dzu said Steele's charges "damage not only my honor as a general but also the honor of the Vietnamese army and the honor of the Vietnamese people."

He accused "personal enemies" of distributing anonymous letters three months ago accusing him of corruption and said he believes they are responsible for the latest charge.

"But Congressman Steele did not check that before making his declaration perhaps," Dzu said. "If he has documents, he has to show me and deal with me."

The general said he and his senior American adviser, John Paul Vann, were waging a "very big" campaign against narcotics in his military region "and we got very nice results since two months. Yesterday we captured in Pleiku more than 200 kilos of marijuana, and I gave large rewards to the men who captured that."

Asked if he was having any success in curtailing the traffic in heroin, Dzu replied: "We are not many, but you know all those things come from Saigon."

Study of Legislature to Be Made

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A study of the organization and procedures of the Arkansas Legislature will be made by the Eagleton Institute of Politics of Rutgers University.

The Committee on Legislative Organization, created by the 1971 General Assembly, selected Eagleton over four other bidders to make the study. Upon completion of the study, Eagleton will recommend improvements.

The institute had offered to do the work for $29,500. It will be a nine-month survey ending next July or August.

The institute's recommendations will be turned over for follow-up action by the committee.

Economical Goal Now Abandoned

By BILL NEIKIRK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has abandoned, for all practical purposes, its target of a $1.065-trillion national economy this year, the most controversial forecast in its January economic report to Congress.

Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, told Congress Thursday pushing the economy toward that target in the last half of the year could accelerate inflation.

McCracken acknowledged the economy in the first six months of 1971 fell below the administration's forecasts, "while inflation has continued higher and the rise of real output and employment have risen less than we expected."

In January, the administration said Gross National Product, output of the nation's goods and services, should climb by 9 per cent this year to a total of $1.065 trillion.

That kind of GNP growth was needed, it said, to reduce unemployment to about 4.5 per cent and inflation, as measured by GNP standards, to 3 per cent by mid-1972.

McCracken was more cautious about these predictions in testimony Thursday before the Senate-House Economic Committee, saying only that the rising rate of inflation would decelerate this year and unemployment would decline.

"There is a danger that if money GNP were now to rise, or be pushed up, to reach the targets previously put forward, that would revive inflation or at least seriously delay its abatement," he said.

McCracken said administration fear of an acceleration in the inflation rate was the main reason President Nixon chose to reject tax reductions as an economic stimulant.

"We are now seeing how difficult it is to remove the economy from the consequences of the inflation that was allowed to develop from 1965 to 1968," he said.

"To permit the inflation to revive, for some short-run and doubtful advantage to ourselves, would be highly irresponsible," the chairman added, saying Congress already has made the 1972 fiscal year budget some $7 billion more expensive than Nixon proposed.

In addition, he said, the Federal Reserve is expected to continue its easier-money policies, though at a more moderate rate than the first half of the year.

Although McCracken predicted unemployment will drop this year, it was evident from his remarks that combating inflation now is ranked as a top-priority goal within the administration.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

TIMES HAVE CHANGED, SON

Dear Helen:

In the Bible (Deut. 24:1) it says to get a divorce, you need only write a Bill of Divorcement and hand it to your mate, then leave the house and that's it.

I wrote one a year ago and gave it to my wife. We have considered ourselves divorced ever since and both have found someone new.

Courts are just a money racket and the Bible is real. So why should I spend the money for a lawyer when I can take God's law? —DIVORCED

Dear Divorced:

Mainly because "God's law" (your version) won't hold up in court. So you'd be hit with a bigamy charge, should you remarry—and remember, son, the Bible also condemns adultery. —H.

Dear Helen:

I recently visited a friend I hadn't seen for a long time, and found some strange situations. Her 20-year-old daughter sleeps in the room with this woman's husband (the father of the girl), while the 14-year old sleeps with the mother.

What do you think of these sleeping habits? —CURIOUS

Dear Curious:

...Not much! —H.

Dear Helen:

We are in our 60s, but our youngest daughter is still in college. She has always been a good girl with high standards and few problems. However, she has grown up with three friends who are now (we feel) very bad influences. They have changed radically since they graduated

Television and Webelos Scouts Are Inducted Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Paul W. Keyes is back at "Laugh-In" as producer, ending an 18-month walkout that followed a dispute over the comedy and direction of the show.

He quit in October 1969 and called the show "slanted, vulgar and dirty."

Keyes, a bearish, deeply tanned man with horn-rimmed glasses and silvery hair, said in a recent interview, "I left 18 months ago over a disagreement and I was told a few months ago the cause of the disagreement is gone. I thought the show was dirty at the time and it no longer is."

"I have a feeling about sex and it's this," he said. "On balance, you can be naughty but not dirty. When a mother tells her kids to get away from the set and says it's dirty, you're through. I'll do a smart, risqué joke in a monologue for Dan and Dick and the kids won't know what you're talking about."

Dan Rowan and Dick Martin are the stars of the fast-paced NBC comedy show.

Keyes denied at the time of his resignation that it had anything to do with his friendship with President Nixon. He said he had not been under White House pressure to stop sniping at the President because he did not think there had been any.

Lighting up a large black cigar, Keyes said, "The writers asked me when I came back, does this mean we can't do any more Nixon jokes? I said, let's do everybody. That's the trouble. They'll do two Raquel Welch jokes and then six Agnew jokes. Of course, we'll continue to do Nixon and Agnew jokes. Any program worth its weight does them."

One of the guests on the first show of the fall season will be Martha Mitchell, wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. She will do cameos with lines that Keyes said "will be appropriate to her style."

Keyes said that despite the rumors he has never written a joke for a speech by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. "Everybody says I wrote his lines but me," he said.

Does he write for the President? "On the Jack Paar show years ago I wrote some lines for him," Keyes said. "Through the years I've given him lines to get a laugh in a speech."

from high school.

One of these girls is living with a boy. Another smokes marijuana. The third goes from one love affair to another.

My daughter hasn't done any of these things yet, says she isn't tempted. She has a part time job, gets good grades, keeps busy—but she won't give up these long time friends. This is causing a big rift in our family, as we insist she should.

I read several of her friends' letters in which they speak openly of sex and drinking and drug parties. When I begged my daughter to drop them, she became incensed because I'd read her mail. After all, she leaves letters lying open around the house.

Now she has started smoking cigarettes, something she never did before. We fear this is the beginning of "laxness." How can we show her that she should drop these girls? —MRS. J.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Why not instead show your daughter that you trust her enough to let her form her own decisions? A mature person makes (and keeps) friendships with all kinds of people, but she also makes (and keeps) her own standards. You've raised her well. Don't ruin your relationship now! —H.

Dear Helen:

As for the man who raids his refrigerator at midnight in only his pajama tops—and the wife worries because the college girl staying with the family might walk in on him: I'll bet she wouldn't be shocked, so why worry?

After all, she has a father and probably brothers. What's so awful about the human body? Our family—and our houseguests—think nothing of being undressed in front of others. We prefer comfort. Embarrassment? Not after the first few minutes. —OVER 50 BUT NOT OVER-SEXED

Dear Over:

Nevertheless, the girl's father might over-react if he heard about the bottomless kitchen scene. My vote still goes for a night shirt. —H.

Injuries Plague AL All-Stars

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The American League's 28-player All-Star roster was filled today, but Manager Earl Weaver might be advised to keep in close touch with the medics before the 42nd mid-season classic with the National League next Tuesday in Detroit.

Already forced to make one substitution, Weaver may have to find other replacements unless a few of his ailing All-Stars respond to treatment in the next couple of days.

Boog Powell of Weaver's Baltimore Orioles became the first casualty. After leading the fans' balloting, Powell was sidelined with a hairline fracture in the wrist.

Weaver didn't have to look far for a replacement for his big first baseman. He named Norm Cash of the host Tigers. Cash only leads the league in homers.

Then things became a little sticky as Weaver and American League headquarters in Boston learned of other injuries. Southpaw Sam McDowell, one of nine pitchers chosen, came down with a throwing arm ailment.

From Minnesota, the Twins reported three All-Stars ailing. Outfielder Tony Oliva and second baseman Rod Carew, both starters, were sidelined with a knee injury and a bad cold Thursday. And third baseman Harmon Killebrew was hobbled by a foot injury.

Weaver completed the squad Thursday by naming 11 reserves, including Al Kaline of Detroit for the 17th time and Harmon Killebrew for the 13th. Others named included catchers Bill Freehan of the Tigers and Thurmon Munson of the New York Yankees, infielders Leo Cardenas of the Twins, Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals and Bill Melton of the Chicago White Sox, and outfielders Bobby Murcer of the Yankees, Amos Otis of Kansas City and Don Buford of the Orioles.

That gave the Orioles and the Twins five representatives each, one more than the Tigers. Boston has three, and New York, Cleveland and Kansas City two each. Oakland, a runaway leader in the American League West, California, Washington, Chicago and Milwaukee had one each.

Travs 5-1 Over Dallas-Fort Worth

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Arkansas Travelers moved to a 4 game lead in the central division of the Dixie Association with a 5-1 victory over Dallas-Fort Worth Thursday night.

The Travelers erupted for three runs in the eighth inning on singles by Ken Reitz and Wayne Dees to pick up their eighth straight victory.

The Travelers try to continue their winning streak with another game tonight at Dallas.

The Spurs' only run Thursday night came on a single by Steve Green.

Amarillo exploded for four runs in the ninth inning Thursday night to whip second-place Memphis 6-3.

In other Dixie action Shreveport blanked San Antonio 3-0 and the Eastern Division all-stars lost to the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

The all-stars tied Atlanta 3-3 in the third inning, but Bob Didier doubled in the seventh and scored on a throwing error to break the tie.

Orioles 7-3 Over Senators

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Chalk up a major milestone for Frank Robinson on the same night that Marcelino Lopez just missed a more modest one.

Robinson poled a three-run homer, the 2,500th hit of his career, helping the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-3 victory over the Washington Senators Thursday night.

Meanwhile, Lopez, a reclamation project from the pitching scrap heap, came within three outs of his first complete game in five years. But the veteran left-hander needed ninth-inning relief help from Ken Sanders to nail down Milwaukee's 2-1 victory over Kansas City.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday Detroit trimmed New York 3-1, Boston downed Cleveland 5-3, California took Minnesota 7-4 and Oakland defeated Chicago 4-2.

In the National Pittsburgh shelled Cincinnati 7-1, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 7-5, San Francisco tripped Houston 4-2 and Chicago topped Los Angeles 5-2.

Robinson, who is the only man in major league history to be named Most Valuable Player in each league, made his milestone hit a memorable one. It was a three-run homer—the 488th homer of his illustrious career which began with Cincinnati 16 seasons ago.

Merv Rettenmund also smacked a three-run homer for Baltimore and left-hander Mike Cuellar dode the heavy hitting to his 11th consecutive and 13th triumph this season.

Cuellar allowed just six hits and showed no ill effects of the strained neck he suffered when he was involved in an automobile accident Monday night.

Lopez, who has not had a complete game since 1966 when he was pitching for California, nursed a 2-1 Milwaukee lead into the ninth inning against Kansas City. But he was lifted when he walked Fred Patek opening the ninth. Sanders came on to preserve the victory.

Tommy Harper drove in both Brewer runs with a third inning single. Lopez, who hadn't worked beyond six innings in 23 previous appearances this year, struck out seven and walked none.

Two rookies, Detroit pitcher Bill Gillebreth and Boston catcher Bob Montgomery, played key roles in victories for their teams.

Gillebreth earned his second major league victory, limiting New York to three hits and pitching the Tigers to their victory over the Yankees. Bill Freehan drove in two Detroit runs, one with a homer.

Montgomery joined a two-run homer with two-out in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and moving Boston past Cleveland. The Indians had built a 3-0 lead on Eddie Leon's two-run single and a solo homer by Chuck Hinton. But Boston bounced back with Rico Petrocelli's 14th homer providing one run Duane Josephson and Phil Gagliano knocking in the others.

Unbeaten Chuck Dobson ran his record to 8-0, pitching Oakland past Chicago. Dobson hurled a five-hitter and the A's packed all their scoring into the second inning. Mike Andrews and Bill Melton homered for the White Sox.

Trevino, Jacklin in Lead

By JOHN FARROW

Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — "I've already spent last week's money," joked Lee Trevino, "and I'm looking for more this week."

Trevino, with the United States and Canadian Open Golf Titles under his belt, shared the lead on 139 with Britain's Tony Jacklin after the first two rounds of the British Open at Royal Birkdale.

"The pressure is on and I can stand it," said the 31-year-old Mexican-American.

The law of averages is against me winning three great titles in four weeks, but my wife and I both think that I can carry off this old crown."

After winning the Canadian Open at Montreal, Trevino flew to Britain and said: "I'd trade one of my U.S. Open titles for the British crown any time."

The field was reduced to 82 after 36 holes—and the only American regular to miss the cut was Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., who wound up with a second-round 81 for 154.

The cut came at 151, and Royal Birkdale's 7,080-yard, par 35-37 links could get angry with the men left in the field. So far the conditions have been almost perfect at Birkdale. But that could change overnight.

Birkdale is a course that suddenly can turn nasty when the wind blows in from the Irish Sea and the sun gives way to rain.

Breathing down the necks of Trevino and Jacklin, winner of both the U.S. and British Opens in 1969, was a new name for British fans—Liang Huan Lu.

The man from Taiwan, a star of the Far East circuit, was one shot back on 140. Argentina's Roberto Vicenzo and perennial star Gary Player of South Africa were at 141 and presenting a big threat to the leaders.

Five players were at 142 including defending champion Jack Nicklaus and the always dangerous Billy Casper.

BATTING — Frank Robinson, Orioles, ripped the 2,500th hit of his career, a three-run homer, that helped Baltimore to a 7-3 victory over Washington.

PITCHING — Bill Gillebreth, Tigers, fired a three-hitter for his second major league victory, hurling Detroit to a 3-1 decision over the New York Yankees.

CHARLIE SIFFORD, left, and Pete Brown are the old pros among black golfers on the tournament tour. Sifford and Brown broke the golf color line after a whites-only clause was removed from the Professional Golfers Association constitution in 1961.

Jim French Is Weekend Highlight

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim French, probably the most durable 3-year-old race horse of 1971, highlights the national thoroughbred program this weekend.

Back from California where he finished second in the Hollywood Derby, the Frank Caldwell-owned colt looms the likely choice in the $75,000-added Dwyer Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

Nothing seems to bother the colt who won the Santa Anita Derby, then finished second in the Kentucky Derby, third in the Preakness and second in the Belmont Stakes.

Jim French took over the favorite role for the Dwyer after Bold Reasoning, the topweight at 128 pounds for the 1¼ mile race was declared out Thursday because of a cough.

Jim French will carry 125 pounds against an expected small field.

Mantia, a study 5-year-old mare who runs in the silks of Elmendorf Farm, is the top weight at 127 pounds for the $60,000-added Beverly Hills Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Her chief challengers in a field of 13 for the 1¼-mile race are expected to be Hi Q. and Typecast.

Other Saturday features include the $40,000 Molly Pitcher Handicap at Monmouth, the $40,000 Milette Handicap at Detroit, the $30,000 Pucker Up at Arlington, the $25,000 Dragon Stakes at Liberty Bell and the $15,000 Mayflower Stakes at Suffolk.

Office Queen, Golden Or and Plumb Grey top the probabilities for the Molly Pitcher. Main Pan and Sonny Says Quick head the Pucker Up with Delta Oil the likely choice in the Mayflower.

He hasn't won a tournament so far in 1971. He missed the cut in three of his last four starts and stands 41st on the money list with $33,419.

Du Quoin, Ill., has been the scene of the Hambletonian 3-year-old trotting classic since 1957.

BASEBALLLOGY

By OLDERMAN

The shoestring catch is no more than the name implies. An outfielder moving in on the ball grabs it off his shoetops.

It is probably the most exciting play an outfielder can make (with the possible exception of catching the ball over his shoulder) because inherently he has to be off balance at the moment the glove makes contact with the ball, since he's coming at full speed and yet has to be bent low enough to scoop it up before it hits the ground. The shoestring catch also leads to some spectacular acrobatics as the fielder strives to maintain possession. Generally he hits the ground with his natural forward momentum and rolls over once or twice, proudly holding

Citizens National League Champion

Citizens National Bank team became the Babe Ruth League champions last night after winning over Blevins 7-6. Citizens ends the season with 12 wins and three losses.

Corn Belt was defeated 6 to 5 by Merchants last night. Corn Belt has 11 wins and four losses. The last game of the season will be played tonight at 6:30. It is between Anderson-Frazier and First National. All-Stars will also be announced tonight.

Off-Year for Pro Dave Hill

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) —

Golf's petulant pro, hot-tempered Dave Hill, is relaxing from misfortune on the links but his sentiments against pro golf and some fellow players are not on vacation.

"They kid out on the tour that there are three sets of rules—one for the top five or six, another for Dave Hill and a few others, and a third for the rest of the players," Hill grouched recently after shooting a few practice rounds at a course in Jackson, Mich., his boyhood home.

"You don't find any personalities in the rulebook. Why should they be applied with a personality in mind?"

Hill has retreated from the pro tour to Jackson, where he hopes to sharpen his game and possibly enter a few more tournaments this year. It has been an off-year for Hill, 34, who earned $274,838 the previous two years.

Prior to McCarver's blast into the right field stands, the Expos had a 5-4 lead on Bob Bailey's three-run homer in the third.

Billy Williams drove in three runs, including the tie-breaking tally with a fifth-inning double, as Chicago completed a sweep of its four-game set with Los Angeles. Williams delivered Don Kessinger in the fifth to snap a 2-2 tie, then drove in Kessinger again in the ninth with a single for an insurance run.

Tim McCarver delivered a three-run homer with two out in the eighth inning to power Philadelphia.

not the overpowering type of pitcher, never have been. I know more about pitching than I ever did. But the constant digs about you're not being what you used to be, well, that works on you. I guess I'm not pitching offensively like I used to."

Both Williams and McLain deny reports of a sore arm.

His lack of success on the mound seems to have humbled McLain in a way that his off-field problems never really did. He seems much less like the heart-pulling manipulative truant. He has a well-known public relations firm handling his affairs, has bought a house in a Washington suburb and says he loves the area, loves the team, loves life generally.

"Nobody throws as hard at 27 as they did at 22," says Williams.

"But," said McLain, "I'm

McLain Enters Act III

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "Rag arm!" barked a baseball analyst seated behind the Washington Senators' dugout. "Bum!"

Denny McLain, the object of the fan's affection, hid his eyes and grimace under the bill of his cap as he came off the mound and disappeared into the dugout sanctuary.

It was the end, at long last, of another inning in which McLain orchestrated a crescendo of booming base hits. He is becoming a maestro at it.

The sad saga of Denny McLain, pitcher, organist, alleged bookmaker, infant terrible, has taken another unexpected turn. He is a losing pitcher. And, of course, whatever McLain does, McLain does at fever pitch. It looked for a time that he might become the losingest pitcher in modern baseball history.

"You keep wondering," said McLain, "Am I ever going to win again, ever?"

By the end of June, McLain had lost 14 of 19 pitching decisions, including nine in a row. Barring banishment to the bullpen or Devil's Island, McLain could expect at least 20 more starts this doleful season.

This would give him a spanking good chance to break Vic Willis's major league record of 29 losses in a season, achieved in 1905 with the Boston Braves. This would also allow him to slip simultaneously past the American League and Washington club record of 26 defeats held jointly by John Townsend of the 1904 Senators and Robert Groom of the 1909 Senators.

Three years ago, all this was reversed for McLain. He had won 31 games for the Detroit Tigers, the only 30-game winner in the big leagues in the last 39 years.

The next season he won 24; then the sky fell. In the winter of 1970 he was suspended from baseball for six months for alleged bookmaking activities. He declared bankruptcy. He returned to baseball on July 1 and was not the same pitcher. He had a 3-5 record before being fined by the club for a prank, and then suspended by commissioner Bowie Kuhn again for dumping a bucket of water on two reporters.

"I'm only 26 but it seems I've already lived two long lifetimes," said McLain, at the time.

He was traded to Washington, where he began a new life, No. 3.

The Senators are a last-place team. They have the kind of hitters who think a run is something women get in nylons. In two months of solid whiffing, the Senators accumulated eight runs for McLain in 72 innings. The biggest lead he had in that time was 1-0 in the first inning; it was quickly dissipated.

He contends that he is the same pitcher he's always been, just not as lucky. Statistics do not bear him out, nor does his manager, Ted Williams.

McLain had a 4.61 earned run average by the end of June, compared to his lifetime average of 3.13 (and 1.96 in 1968). On an average, he's had nearly three times as many strikeouts as walks in his career. Now, the ratio is less than double.

"Nobody throws as hard at 27 as they did at 22," says Williams.

"But," said McLain, "I'm

French Offer $3 Million for Pele

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Officials of the Brazilian Santos club announced Thursday night they had turned down an offer of $3 million from a French club for famed soccer star Pele.

Vasco Faet, president of Santos, said the president of the Paris Saint Germain Club, Guy Croissant, made the offer, stressing that $2 million would go to Santos and $1 million to Pele.

Faet said the offer was refused "because we have other plans to make more money with Pele on our team." He added that "everyone can be sure that Pele will never be transferred and will end his career playing with us."

The 30-year-old Pele, who led Brazil to the World Soccer Cup in 1970, earlier had threatened to quit professional soccer for good because of a controversy over his decision to retire from the Brazilian national team. Pele is scheduled to play his last game for the national team on July 18 after which he plans to play with his team, Santos, for three more years.

Pele said that when he first announced his plan to retire from the national team "everybody agreed with me but now, all of a sudden, there has been a change of opinion."

Pele continued: "the people must understand that I'm not doing this to harm anybody. I will continue playing with Santos, but if to play with Santos I must also play with the national selection, then my next step will be to quit professional soccer."

"I wouldn't like that to happen, but if there is a day when a player has to announce his retirement, then I have chosen mine. I know I'll suffer a lot of pressures, but my answer is definite."

Carter Goes Back to Old Style

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates' star Roberto Clemente drew his 11th All-Star Game assignment today as Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson completed the National League squad.

Clemente, four-time league batting champion, will take a .310 All-Star batting average into next Tuesday night's game at Detroit. He finished fifth among National League outfielders in voting by baseball fans that determined the starting line-ups.

Anderson named 12 players to complete the 28-man squad. Catcher Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh, first baseman Nate Colbert of San Diego and outfielders Bobby Bonds of San Francisco and Willie Davis of Los Angeles were put on the All-Star team for the first time.

The others named were infielders Don Kessinger and Ron Santo of Chicago, Lee May of Cincinnati and Felix Millan of Atlanta, and outfielders Lou Brock of St. Louis, Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Rusty Staub of Montreal.

Rose, who scored the winning run in the 12th inning of last year's All-Star Game, was named to the National League squad for the sixth time.

Clemente in 11th All-Star Game

HORSHAM, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Joanne Carner put her "new" game on display today and a field of 74 women started play in the $25,000 George Washington Gold Classic at the Hidden Springs Country Club.

Actually, Mrs. Carner's "new" game is really her old game reborn after a year, and a-half of trying to be something she isn't.

The 32-year-old Mrs. Carner said she made the change in practice rounds two weeks ago before winning the U.S. Women's Open Championship at Erie, Pa.

"I stopped being a cute defensive golfer and went back to my natural style of belting the ball," said Mrs. Carner, long recognized as the longest hitter among the current distaff golfers.

The change worked at Erie, and she's anxious to see if it continues in the George Washington, a 54-hole test over a 6,150 yard par 73 course. Eight of the ladies Professional Golf Association's 1971 top ten money winners were in the field of 66 pros and eight amateurs.

Among those challenging the new Open queen were the tournament's defending champion, Mrs. Judy Rankin; the tour's leading money winner this year, Kathy Whitworth, and Sandra Palmer, Sandra Haynie, Jane Blalock, Jo Ann Prentice, Mary Mills, and Carol Mann.

Mrs. Carner built her reputation as a five-time national amateur champion. Her 270-280-yard tee shots made a lot of male golfers envious. When she turned pro, however, she changed her image, sought to finesse the courses.

"I would swing hard one time and easy the next," explained the 5 foot, 7 strawberry blond. "I was bouncing the ball onto the greens instead of flying to the pin. You can't keep changing your swing. Hit it as hard as you can, that's my real style."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The tilt of the earth's axis with respect to the sun determines the seasons. The World Almanac notes that if the earth's axis were perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun there would be no change of seasons. Day and night would be of equal length and there would be equable conditions of temperature.

HOW TO BUY

Experience is the best teacher when buying vegetables. But it helps to have a few guidelines to take along to the supermarket. No matter the budget, it saves money to insist upon fresh vegetables. Those that are wilted and stale really are not a bargain unless tossed into a soup pot. Your local newspaper carries a listing of plentiful vegetables and better buys occur at the peak of the season. Again it doesn't pay to buy more vegetables than can be used soon without waste. Most fresh vegetables hold for two to five days, while root vegetables can be stored from one to several weeks.

Here is a guide to buying fresh vegetables:

ARTICHOKES—Size not important in relation to quality. Should be compact, with thick, green scales (outside leaf). Avoid those with large areas of brown on the scales and with spreading scales, grayish-black discoloration, mold growth or signs of worm injury at the near-base.

ASPARAGUS—Has a short life. Use promptly. Stalks should be tender and firm and tips close and compact. Choose with little white on stalks for tenderness. Tender asparagus is brittle, while angular or flat stalks are apt to be woody.

SNAP BEANS—Select slender beans with no bumps, free from scars. When broken, there should be no strings. Avoid dry-looking, dull or lifeless-looking pods.

BROCCOLI—Look for fresh, green, compact bud clusters. Avoid yellowing, soft or spreading heads. Open bud clusters mean broccoli is overmature. Avoid wilted, flabby or bruised items.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS—Select sprouts that are firm, compact, fresh, bright and with good green color. Avoid puffy or soft sprouts, those with wilted or yellowing leaves. Avoid wormy, smudgy or dirty appearance. This indicates insect damage or decay.

CABBAGE—Three major groups here, green cabbage, green crinkly leaved Savoy and red cabbage. Sold as fresh-new or storage-old. Select firm, heavy-for-size heads. Outside leaves good color for type—good green or red. In new cabbage, avoid wilted or decayed outer leaves, yellowing or worm-eaten. In storage cabbage, avoid badly discolored, dry or decayed outer leaves. Separation of stems or leaves from central stem at base also indicates over-age.

CARROTS—Available year-round. Should be well-formed, smooth, well-colored and firm. Avoid those that look wilted, flabby, soft or shriveled. Also avoid those with roots with large, green, "sunburned" areas at the top and flabby or decaying roots.

CAULIFLOWER—Outer white portion called the curd. These should be white to creamy-white, compact and clean. Jacket or green leaves should be good green color. Avoid discolored heads, soft spots. Smudgy or speckled appearance of curd is sign of insect injury, mold growth or decay.

CELERY—Celery is green Pascal or golden. Select celery with thick, solid-looking stalks, clean, glossy surface. Avoid wilted, flabby celery with pithy, hollow or discolored centers in branches. Also avoid stalks with "blackheart" or brown or black discoloration of small center branches; signs of insect injury or long, thick seedstem in place of usually small, tender heart branches.

CHICORY, ENDIVE, ESCAROLE—Look for freshness, crispness, good green color of outer leaves. Avoid leaves of brownish or yellowish discoloration and signs of insect injury.

CORN—Retains fairly good quality for a number of days if kept cold and moist since harvesting. Place in home refrigerator. Best to use promptly. Look for well-filled, plump kernels. Firm to touch. Husks are fresh and green. Avoid dry, yellowed or straw-colored husks or shrinking kernels; also old ears with very large kernels and dark yellow kernels.

PINEAPPLE—Colors vary but ripe pineapple has a fragrant, fruity aroma. It is clean, eyes are flat, almost hollow. The heavier the fruit for its size the better the quality. Fruit picked too early does not ripen properly and has dull yellowish appearance, eyes poorly developed and somewhat pointed. When fully ripe, the spikes at top pull out easily. Avoid those with decay or moldy spots.

PLUMS AND PRUNES—These do not ripen after harvest. Immature fruit is hard, often shows shriveled appearance, has poor color and flavor. Overmature fruit is too soft, leaky and flavor flat. Some varieties are rully ripe when color is yellowish-green; others when red, others when purplish blue or black. Softening at the tip is good indication of maturity.

MANGOES—Picked when mature, green, ripe when deep yellow or purple depending upon variety. Should be firm and well-formed.

PAPAYAS—Shaped like a pear and weigh 2 to 6 pounds. Picked at mature green stage. Eat when ripe, cook when green. Ripe papayas have soft skin, uniformly orange-yellow skin, free of black blemishes and injuries.

LETTUCE—Fairly even year-round supply. Four major sellers include Iceberg, butter-head, Romaine and leaf. Select fairly firm to firm head Iceberg that is clean, without excessive tip burn, rusty appearance or shows seedstems or excessive outer leaves. Color is medium-green outer and lighter green inner leaves. Butter-head (Bibb and Big Boston) slightly flat on top with soft, succulent, light-green leaves in rosette pattern in center. Romaine is tall, cylindrical with dark-green leaves. Leaf lettuce is without compact head, has broad leaves. Look for freshness, crisp leaves and good bright color in all lettuce. Avoid tip burn, serious discoloration, irregularly shaped heads and those with bumps.

MUSHROOMS—Young mushrooms should be small to medium in size. Select clean, white to creamy white or light brown, free from open caps (top); caps can be slightly open with pink and light-tan gills (rows of tissue under cap). Avoid overripe mushrooms with wide-open caps, dark, discolored gills, pitted or seriously discolored.

OKRA—Look for tender pods whose tips bend with slight pressure, under 4 1/2 inches long, bright green, free from blemishes. Avoid dull, dry-looking pods, also shriveled or discolored, or pale-tinted green color. These all lack flavor.

Care Keeps Windows Working

By MR. FIX

Not all of us live in sealed, totally air-conditioned buildings. For most of us windows are still things we open on a hot day, close when it rains or gets cold.

Sometimes opening and closing aren't easy and then we roast, get wet or freeze.

Whether or not a window works properly is something few of us worry about until it is too late. That's when the struggle begins.

Windows are little different from other working items around the home in that maintenance is easier than repair. Generally, when moving parts are involved, lubrication is the key to proper care.

An assortment consisting of paraffin, grease stick, powdered graphite and an oil can with a flexible spout will take care of most anything. It's a pretty good collection for lubrication generally.

Use the grease stick on the window slides. A little goes a long way and lasts for some time. Sliding parts can be brushed with melted paraffin. The double-hung window should be lubricated on the pulley styles (these are the slots in which the window slides) and on the stop beads (the wood strips that keep the window in place).

To expose the pulleys pull down the top half of the window. Lubricate the pulley shafts with oil or graphite.

Casement windows are easier so far as window frames are concerned. There is no sliding. But pay attention tion to the special opening mechanisms. These cranks or slides should be kept lubricated with oil and graphite.

Painting always creates headaches where windows are concerned. A seal of hardened paint is not fun. Maybe you thought that since you had no trouble immediately and the paint is no longer new there will be no problem.

Dampness can cause wood to swell and paint to get soft. The combination is not good and when the paint hardens the windows are sealed shut.

Work gently and slowly and from the outside if possible. Try working the paint loose with a putty knife worked under the bottom of the sash. If the putty knife doesn't work, try a chisel or a knife carefully run around the edges of the sash.

If you must work from the inside use a chisel and a mallet, inserting the chisel into the hardened paint and tapping lightly. Work slowly and carefully.

If all else fails, remove the molding that holds the sash in place. Pry off gently so that you don't crack or break it. Sand the edges.

With the window open, lubricate the exposed surfaces. If you have had to sand away the paint, give the surfaces a coat of linseed oil.

Generous George does not always call immediate attention to his acts of generosity. Thus, he let East's king of clubs hold the first trick without comment.

What would you do if you were East? You would lead a second club. George won this with the ace, led a diamond to dummy's ace and played the deuce of hearts. East went right up with the ace and led another club, whereupon George ran out his contract plus an overtrick.

In one respect, George's duck at trick one was silly. East could have shifted to a low spade right then and beaten George two tricks or he could have led the spade when he got in with the ace of hearts.

Put yourself in East's place. If surely looked to him as if George had no worries about the spade suit. It also looked as if West had led a club from a suit headed by queen-jack. Maybe East should not have been fooled, but he was.

Suppose George had not been generous and had won the first club. Would East have continued clubs when he got in with the ace of hearts? Possibly, but not certainly. East might well have figured out that George's hand was exactly what it was and led the spade to beat him one trick instead of the two that George had risked by his generosity.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Describing Dr. Daniel Ellsberg as "a true patriot," a Los Angeles businessman has announced establishment of a legal defense fund for the former Rand Corp. scientist and any others accused in the leak of secret Pentagon papers on Vietnam.
Albert R. Appleby, chairman of the local chapter of the Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace, said Wednesday the organization will seek donations after a federal grand jury completes its investigation.
The Los Angeles panel has indicted Ellsberg on charges of unauthorized possession of the 47-volume Defense Department study and the Justice Department has said others may be prosecuted.
Appleby told a news conference that Ellsberg, 40, is a "true patriot in the highest sense of the word," adding that leak of the Pentagon papers to newspapers did not harm the national security.

Two Arrested for Robbery
NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI has arrested two New Jersey men in connection with the robbery of Italian actress Sophia Loren at gunpoint in her Manhattan apartment last Oct. 11.
Three gunmen entered the apartment and took $2,000 in cash, personal jewels worth $500,000 and jewelry she had borrowed from a New York dealer. A fourth man held four hotel employees at gunpoint while the robbery took place.
Miss Loren and her infant son, Carlo Ponti Jr., were not injured, but her secretary received a scalp wound when one of the robbers hit her with his weapon.
Part of the loot was found by two boys in West New York, N.J., several hours after the robbery and turned over to police.
The FBI identified the men arrested Wednesday as Vincent M. Morris, 36, of North Bergen and Joseph Fernandez, 41, of Jersey City. They were charged with interstate transportation of stolen jewelry and were held for arraignment.

Man Hit by Flashlight Is Suing
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Donald Albright of near Salem told the state Claims Commission Wednesday that his vision had been impaired, that he sometimes passed out and there were certain types of work he could not do as a result of being struck with a flashlight by a State Police trooper last year.
Albright has filed a $40,000 claim against the state as a result of the injuries. The commission is holding a hearing on the claim.
The incident allegedly occurred in April of last year when Albright was arrested near Salem by Trooper Lloyd Martz on a charge of being drunk on the highway.
Martz, a trooper for four years, said that he and Fulton County Sheriff Roy Barker tried to get Albright out of a car that was parked on the highway. He said Albright was "hitting and slapping" at the two officers. Martz said he told Albright he was under arrest and Albright swung at him.
The trooper said he blocked Albright's swing and struck the man with the flashlight.
Albright said he could not remember doing anything to provoke Martz into striking him.
Testimony in the case resumes today.

People in Dark About Benefits

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Although fringe benefits account for more than one-quarter of many paychecks, it is unlikely that many of the recipients could pass a true-false quiz on the subject.

The absence of knowledge is particularly obvious in regard to private pension plans, which are now estimated to total $130 billion in assets, a sum whose management and mismanagement is causing concern in Congress.

Yet the information is available, but not always in the right places. Funding reports are made to the Securities and Exchange Commission, to the Labor Department and to accountants and lawyers.

But in many cases the employee directly concerned gets no report until he requests one.

Who is to blame? Clearly there is a certain apathy on the part of workers.

But management must assume much of the blame. It simply has not found a clear, easy method of communicating the intricate details of its plans. Its attitude appears to be dutiful rather than enthusiastic.

"Even if an employee did get the information, I am not sure it would be meaningful," said James Attwood, senior vice president and pension expert at Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The communication of pension information is "perfunctory rather than meaningful," he believes.

What should the employee ask for if he does decide to call the personnel department or write to the home office? Attwood feels some of the most important questions are concerned with benefits.

—When do you become covered? Sometimes the program doesn't cover the new employee during his first years of service. Sometimes an employee isn't covered for disability benefits until he attains a certain age.

—When are you vested? When are your rights to benefits ironclad, even should you leave the company's service? Do you know the dollar amount and conditions of payment if you do leave? And if you remove your own contributions, will you lose those made for you by the company?

—How are your benefits calculated? On the basis of your average salary? Or on your salary at the time your employment terminates?

—There is almost always a death benefit after retirement. Does your plan provide a benefit for death before retirement?

Every employee should be aware of the answers to such questions, Attwood states. But benefits should be only part of their concern. They have a vital interest in understanding the funding of their plan.

In some plans, the funds are invested solely in the company's own stock. In others, dangerous and even fraudulent loans are made. And many plans are not insured.

Which brings up these correlative questions: What if the company goes out of business? What if the loans are not paid back? What if some of the investments fail to yield the rate of return projected for them?

To Rule on Insurance Rates Soon

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Insurance Commissioner A. Gene Sykes says he will rule soon, possibly today, on whether to grant an increase in the rates of about a third of the automobile insurance written in Arkansas.

Sykes had planned to make a decision by Wednesday, but put off a ruling when the Arkansas State AFL-CIO asked the department to examine the profit-loss experience of the insurance companies on policies written in excess of basic limits required by the state.

Sykes is reconsidering an average 22.7 per cent rate increase he had granted originally. The AFL-CIO had appealed the approval to Circuit Court Judge Tom F. Digby of Little Rock and Digby returned the case to Sykes at the commissioner's request when the Arkansas Legislative Council asked for reconsideration.

Companies belonging to the Insurance Service Office are seeking the rate increase.

Kivie Kaplan Wrapped Up in NAACP

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Kivie Kaplan belongs to five Jewish congregations and one Christian church, but his most active interest is in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The 67-year-old retired tannery executive has served as president of the predominantly Negro organization since 1968, and 58 members of his family hold life memberships in the NAACP.

The latest addition was Jeremiah Joshua Kaplan, a grandson who was enrolled as a life member within 10 hours of birth last May 20.

How did Kaplan get wrapped up in an organization primarily dedicated to advancing the cause of blacks?

He explains he felt discrimination himself as a Jew.

"But I never realized how much worse off the Negroes were until that trip I made to Miami Beach, Fla., in 1932," he said.

While being driven about Miami by a Negro, Kaplan came to a hotel that had a sign, "No Jews or dogs allowed."

The driver saw Kaplan was perturbed and said: "Don't feel badly, Mr. Kaplan. We Negroes can't go out after 8 p.m. without a permit from the city."

The driver also said Negroes weren't allowed to swim in the ocean.

Kaplan says there is a small minority among the half million members of the NAACP that resents having a white man as president.

Rock Singer Jim Morrison Is Dead

PARIS (AP) — Jim Morrison, lead singer of The Doors and a star of the acid rock scene, died in Paris last Saturday and was buried Wednesday in Pere Lachaise cemetery.

The death of the 27-year-old entertainer was announced early today in Los Angeles by his manager William Siddons, and confirmed by U.S. officials in the French capital.

The cause of death was not given on the official listing, but Siddons said he "died peacefully of natural causes."

Siddons attended the funeral and took Morrison's wife, Pamela, back to Los Angeles. The Morrisons had no children.

Max Fink, the singer's personal lawyer, said he had been told that Morrison suffered either a heart attack or died from pneumonia.

Morrison's parents, Adm. and Mrs. Steve Morrison of Arlington, Va., said they had talked Thursday with relatives on the West Coast who had heard nothing unusual about their son.

In a statement to newsmen on his arrival here, Siddons said he had "just returned from France where I attended the funeral of James Morrison. Jim was buried in a simple ceremony with only a few friends present."

Siddons said Morrison's death "was kept quiet because those of us who knew him ... wanted to avoid all the notoriety and circus-like atmosphere that surrounded the deaths of Janis Joplin and Jimi Hendrix."

He would not say where in France the rock singer was buried.

Siddons said Morrison had seen a doctor in Paris last Saturday about a respiratory problem and "complained of this problem on the day of his death."

The singer had been in France with his wife since March writing a movie screenplay following a tour of Europe and North Africa, Siddons said. Born in Melbourne, Fla., and a graduate of UCLA, Morrison and The Doors, based in Hollywood, rose to rock fame in 1967 with the release of an eventual million copy seller, "Light My Fire."

As a singer, Morrison was described by one rock critic as "cold, insolent, evil, slightly mad and seemed to be in some sort of hypnotic trance."

There were 637,108 shotgun licenses issued in England and Wales in 1969.
